

Historical project completed

Summer employees of the National Park Service have nearly completed making plans of all historical buildings on the west side of Hawaii, six years' project will be wound up this week.

Dr. Mertz is auxiliary tea speaker

Dr. Andrew W. Mertz, acting director of the National State Hospital, will be the featured speaker at a luncheon at the Honolulu Club Hotel in Honolulu today.

The students did much of their routine work in a building which is historic in its own right, but before the building was to be pulled down.

Their Honolulu drafting room for several weeks was under the dome of the original Central Union Church in Kula.

Mr. John Darrell, auxiliary chairman, said new volunteers will undergo an extensive orientation program September 23 before they begin their work in the hospital.

The students making the drawings are: James G. Gander, Honolulu; Gene E. Gander, Honolulu; Gene E. Gander, Honolulu; Gene E. Gander, Honolulu.

Their work was complicated by the discovery of photographs in the public Archives which show that the historical building had three stories.

Ratanu Natzka also had been working on the Palace and other Honolulu buildings.

The Granby Colorado plane accident in which a four-engine jet was injured occurred as the plane hit a tree on take-off Monday, Associated Press reported today.

Peter Ripstein, 19, of 1809 Nole Street, was one of six University of Colorado students who were on a return flight from the resort town of Aspen where the crash occurred.

He suffered burns in trying to rescue from the wreckage the pilot who was killed. The other students survived with a broken back the most serious injury.
