*Half the fun is planting;
half the fun is watching them grow!*

In 1994 Congress passed the King Holiday and Service Act, designating the King Holiday as a national day of volunteer service. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. sought to forge the common ground on which people from all walks of life could join together to address important community issues. The King Day of Service brings together people who might not ordinarily meet, breaks down barriers that have divided us in the past, leads to better understanding and ongoing relationships. Participation in the King Day of Service has grown steadily over the past decade, with hundreds of thousands of Americans each year engaging in projects such as tutoring and mentoring children, painting schools and senior centers, delivering meals, building homes, and reflecting on Dr. King's life and teachings.

On January 21st, 2008, millions of Americans across the country will once again honor his legacy by taking part in a wide range of service projects. JOIN US!

Berryland will eventually contain more than 30 varieties of perennial berry bushes open to all Greenway users.

Nearby at the Lincoln Farm, 3rd grade student farmers are working to grow fresh, organic produce for their families.

Planting along the Greenway swales will help hide the fences and industrial buildings adjacent to the Greenway. These native plants will also help reduce water pollution by reducing erosion.
